Concert: An Acoustic Evening with Yo La Tengo featuring Dave Schramm
Finney Chapel

Fresh off celebrating their 30th anniversary, Yo La Tengo released Stuff Like That There on August 28, 2015 via Matador Records. The trio of Ira Kaplan, Georgia Hubley and James McNew returned as a quartet, reuniting with former member Dave Schramm on electric guitar as they revisit the original concept of their beloved Fakebook (a mix of cover songs, “covers” of Yo La Tengo songs, and brand new originals) on its 25th anniversary. This unprecedented live set-up — Ira on acoustic guitar, Georgia up-front on a small kit, and James on upright bass — marks the first occasion of this particular Yo La Tengo incarnation touring together (and since it took them 31 years to get around to doing so, could very well also be the last).

Fresh from the celebration of their 30th anniversary, Yo La Tengo released Stuff Like That There (2015) on Matador Records. The trio of Ira Kaplan, Georgia Hubley, and James McNew then returned as a quartet, with YLT-alum Dave Schramm on guitar, to revisit their beloved fakebook concept: a mix of cover songs, “covers” of Yo La Tengo songs, and brand-new originals, 25 years after its introduction. The set-up of Kaplan on acoustic guitar, Hubley up-front on a small kit, and McNew on upright bass marks the debut of this live-and-in-person configuration of Yo La Tengo. And, since it took them 31 years to get around to doing so, it could very well also be the last. $8 OCID, $18 General Public.

The trio’s nimble tongues, rubber-limbed pratfalls, and obvious street-performer smarts make this a merry, nose-tweaking outing.”—Washington Post
